ORDER OF EAGLES TO AID DISTRESSED

Edict Imposing Assessment of 25 Cents on Each Member for San Francisco.

EAGLES IN VIRGINIA NUMBER 5,000

Hampton Aerie Responded Promptly to the Request from State Deputy Worthy, President, C. G. Pleasant, for Funds—Entire Order in State Will Send $1,200.

In order that it may do its share towards alleviating the terrible suffering in San Francisco, the fraternal order of Eagles, throughout Virginia, has determined to assess each member the sum of twenty-five cents for the special relief fund.

Mr. Frank W. Moore, treasurer of Hampton Aerie, yesterday morning received a telegram from Mr. C. G. Pleasant, of Petersburg, the state deputy grand worthy president of Virginia, informing him of the edict and Mr. Moore immediately took action in the premises.

Hampton Aerie has a membership in good standing of about 170 and it will be seen that the order of Eagles throughout the United States, will be enabled to render valuable assistance to the people of the stricken Golden Gate City.

It is estimated that there are 5,000 Eagles in Virginia and the assessment order means that Virginia Eagles will contribute at least $1,200 to the relief fund.

As is well understood there will be many members of the Eagles who will give larger contributions than the order of the State Deputy Worthy imposes upon them.

"TEMSE" AND "THAMES."

Origin of the Saying About Setting the River on Fire.

Sometimes when a person wants to make an unpleasant remark in a pleasant sort of way about a dull boy he will say, "That boy will never set the river on fire." Now, that is all very true, for even the smartest man in the world could never set a stream of water on fire, and so perhaps many of you who have heard this expression have wondered what is meant by setting the river on fire.

In England many, many years ago, before the millers had machinery for sifting flour, each family was obliged to sift its own flour. For doing this it was necessary to use a sieve, called a temse, which was so fixed that it could be turned round and round in the top of a barrel. If it was turned too fast the friction would sometimes cause it to catch fire, and as it was only the smart, hardworking boys who could make it go so fast the people got into the way of pointing out a lazy boy by saying that he would never set the temse on fire. After awhile these sieves went out of use, but as there were still plenty of stupid boys in the world people kept on saying that they would never set the temse on fire.

Now, the name of the river Thames is pronounced exactly like the word temse, and so after many years those persons who had never seen or heard of the old fashioned sieve thought that "setting the temse on fire" meant setting the river Thames on fire. This expression became very popular and traveled far and wide until the people living near other streams did not see why it was any harder for a slothful boy to set the Thames on fire than any other river, and so the name of the river was dropped, and everybody after that simply said "the river," meaning the river of his particular city or town, and that is how it is that people today talk of setting the river on fire.
